I am still processing much of the material from this book for discussion groups with the Patience Grace Pathway to Peace process which I run in workshop or individual counselling sessions. Although this process is mainly based on bullying issues in schools and community groups at the moment, it may also be used for couple counselling, sibling issues, and a variety of other concerns in work or community environments. I interviewed Dorothy Rowe by phone many years ago when I first reviewed one of But I say to you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which spitefully use you, and persecute you; If we believe in Jesus at all, we must say to our enemies, "I love you. I would rather die than hate you." The important people in your life are very likely to have been people you've met before, your past life friends.
