Throughout his previous books - Coaching, performing and thinking at work (Milan: EDUCatt, 2013), Reflections on performance at work (Milan: EDUCatt, 2012), Elements of theatre at work (Milan: EDUCatt, 2010) and Training through drama for work (Milan: EDUCatt, 2009) - Brian approached workplace performance from the perspective of the theatre, attempting to illustrate the connection between work and the world of drama and dramatic texts. Here now the emphasis is on one's personal performance potential, for the sake of satisfying an audience comprised of our stakeholders at work. Being clear about our part, learning what needs to be learnt, practising it, and ultimately undertaking the part, are all examined initially to provide a framework for the subsequent chapters of the book. Regardless of the formal title attached to our work, the concept of each of us being the leading man or woman in the production called 'Our Life' is investigated here.
